37 Die in Fire As Inmates Riot At Prison Camp

JAY, Fla. (AP)—Thirty seven prisoners were killed at a recently integrated state prison road camp Sunday night, state officials said today, when disgruntled convicts fired scrap paper and inadvertently turned their locked barracks into a flaming oven.

Fourteen of the 51 prisoners inside the burning building were rescued. Five were hospitalized with burns at nearby Century. One was taken to the intensive-care unit at Pensacola hospital and eight were transferred to the jail at Pensacola.

The fire was set by prisoners, said Louis Wainwright, director of the State Corrections Division. A guard saw two prisoners — one a Negro and another white — touching lighted matches to newspapers, Wainwright said.

G.C. Mayne Jr., assistant warden at the camp, earlier had said the barracks erupted into flame when battling prisoners, a Negro and a white, broke a gas line and smashed a fluorescent lamp.

Wainwright, after conferring at the scene with three agents of the state fire marshal's office, said vapor from the broken fluorescent lamp was ignited by the burning newspapers.

"I'm sure they didn't anticipate what would happen," Wainwright said, "but they anticipated there would be some slight damage and this would cause some of them to be transferred to Raiford or elsewhere."

The state penitentiary is at Raiford.

Wainwright said he didn't know exactly why the men were displeased. "There has been no indication that any racial problem was involved at all," he added.

Mayne said guards ran for their weapons when fighting broke but returned in time to save the 14 survivors.

Pasco Rowells, a State Highway Department foreman who supervised the men at work, said the fight began between a Negro and a white man. He said there had been reports of racial trouble and fights between the 35 Negro prisoners and 16 whites since the camp was integrated last week.

The first fire alarm came at 10:42 p.m. Guard Cocker Nelson said the aging World War II style barracks was destroyed in eight minutes.

Rescue workers retrieved 35 bodies when the embers cooled several hours later. The other two victims ran from the burning building and dropped dead on a lawn.

Miss Ohio Named at Cedar Point

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—The Miss Ohio Pageant is nothing new to Pamela Sue Robinson of Dayton, but her title is.

23 DEAD IN NEWARK RIOTING — New Jersey's Gov. Richard J. Hughes called out 4,800 National Guardsmen, state, and local police to patrol Newark's debris-laden streets as the rioting and looting continued over the weekend. Momentous Doings Mark Croquet International WESTHAMPTON BEACH, N.Y. (AP)—The affair Sunday at this picturesque South Shore Long Island community may go down in history alongside never-to-be-forgotten world championships in goldfish swallowing and flagpole sitting.

From 3,000 miles away, eight members of the revered Hurlingham Club of London had come, custom-made brassbound liguam-vitae mallets in hand, to take on the Westhampton Mallet Club.

In a pouring rain, 11 spectators gathered to witness the tense moments of international combat. Slowly their numbers swelled to 13. Then 15. Word was spreading.

The Second Annual Unofficial International Croquet Tournament was nearing the point when the world would know: Could the Americans rebound from the stunning defeat they suffered at the clubs of the British team last year in London?

Unofficial world champion croquetier John Solomon of London carefully approached his blue ball. The tournament was tied two games to two with two games to go.

If Solomon could hit the blue ball so it smacked the red ball and caromed off the yellow ball into the black ball thereby knocking the black ball through a rather sticky wicket, the British might have the championship wrapped up.

The crowd grew hushed. Solomon bit his lip. He surveyed the course. The tension was unbearable. Then he stood erect.

"I say," he said, "Isn't it 4 o'clock?"

"It was 4 o'clock."

Young Athlete Dies of Cancer

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Jerry Click, a promising football player at Capital University in Columbus who suffered cancer and had to have his left leg amputated, died Sunday. He was 20.

Click, who was an All-Ohio quarterback for Millersport High School in 1964, died at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Miller of Hebron, with whom he lived.

His mother died shortly after his birth in 1947 and his father died in 1963.

Click injured his ankle in the spring of 1966. The injury developed into cancer and he was hospitalized several months. He had played football for Capital as a freshman.

Newark Has Relatively Quiet Night

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — New Jersey's largest city had its first night of relative quiet in five violent days Sunday, but gunfire and firebombs mushroomed in small, nearby Plainfield, where National Guardsmen were called in after a white policeman was shot and beaten to death as Negro gangs rampaged.

Trouble also echoed in Jersey City, where a group of teenagers was scattered after smashing several windows with rocks and firebombs, and in adjacent East Orange, where police arrested three white men for firing from a car at a Negro boy.

Guardsmen stationed on every corner along Newark's ravaged Springfield Avenue reported scattered but considerably subdued sniper fire after dark, and no more of the looting and firebombing that left the Negro shopping area a mass of broken boards and glass.

An overnight curfew expired at dawn with streets still calm and most Newark stores and businesses closed to the day.

Three more riot deaths Sunday brought the Newark total to 24. A woman was shot before dawn, a youth died from gunfire while looting a store, and a 12-year-old boy was shot after (Continued on Page 2)

Ohio Railroads Grind To Halt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Nearly all rail traffic in Ohio ground to a halt early today as a strike of the International Association of Machinists spread across the nation.

Engineers, trainmen and other operating personnel were observing picket lines. And pickets were posted Sunday night in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Toledo, Youngstown, Akron and many other rail centers.

Largest installation directly involving the strikers is the diesel shops of the New York Central System at Collinwood on Cleveland's East Side. It employs about 1,200.

In contrast, only one machinist is employed by the Ann Arbor Railroad at Toledo, and he was reported on vacation.

The NYC and Pennsylvania, major passenger lines serving Ohio, suspended operations at midnight Sunday.

So did the Cleveland - headquartered Erie Lackawanna which transports an estimated 35,000 New Jersey commuters daily.

The Chesapeake Ohio Railway, also Cleveland-based and a major carrier of coal, reported a "partial operation" Sunday night but was uncertain it could be maintained.

Three lake vessels were docked in Toledo waiting to take on coal at the BO-CO docks, but there was no loading from a coal train on the adjacent siding.

There was some pickup in bus travel Sunday night but at the big Greyhound terminal in Cleveland a dispatcher said the increase was "nothing very exciting."

A special Erie Lackawanna train carrying a group of Clevelanders home from a Cleveland Press-sponsored tour to New York City was caught in the strike near Buffalo. But a crew of supervisors took over at Hornell, N. Y., early today and brought the train in to Cleveland.

Congress Now Moves To End Rail Walkout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Confronted by a crippling rail work stoppage and prodded by President Johnson, Congress moved today to end a month-long legislative impasse and quickly approve legislation to end the walkout.

Congressional leaders summoned to the White House Sunday in the walkout's early hours promised to get antistrike legislation to Johnson's desk by tonight. The strike was expected to affect 80 per cent of U.S. rail tonnage by noon.

Indications were that legislation would provide for a possible government-imposed settlement — a provision bitterly opposed by the unions.

But Joseph W. Ramsey, vice president of the Machinists Union whose locals began the walkout, said union national headquarters "would certainly urge respect for the law" if Congress acts.

Johnson used up his anti-strike powers earlier in the lengthy pay dispute between six shopcraft unions and most of the nation's railroads, so had nowhere to turn but to Congress for a new law.

The Senate and House each passed a no-strike bill this spring but a conference committee has been haggling about the differences for a month.

Congressional sources said the committee would be shunted aside and the Senate would pass anew its bill calling for a 90-day no-strike, intense-talks period followed by a government-imposed settlement if no voluntary agreement were reached.

House leaders promised affirmative action on that plan although the House earlier struck the government-imposed settlement provision from the bill.

"We've had a year of talk. It's time for action," said Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

Flow of Arms For Viet War Is Curtailed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's biggest rail strike in 20 years virtually wiped out commuter service, cut ties between farm and market and partially blocked the flow of arms for Vietnam today.

Chances for quick congressional legislation that might end the walkout fell considerably.

Senate and House conferees, who have been unable for several weeks to agree on legislation to prevent the strike, gave up again today on legislation to end the strike after one hour of talks and tossed the problem back to both houses.

Members said they still hoped however, to approve a bill by tonight.

The White House has pressed in the day, Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., head of the Senate delegation in the joint committee, had promised some sort of legislation by noon.

The walkout by 137,000 shopcraft union workers completely shut down 30 railroads — virtually the nation's entire rail complex, with only scattered parts of New England and the South escaping the strike.

Nearly 400,000 commuters used to catching trains into New York City, Chicago and Philadelphia fought their way instead onto highways or simply checked into city hotels to wait out the dispute.

Most of the commuter automobile traffic into New York moved slowly but smoothly although police reported that on some highways traffic was three times heavier than normal.

In Chicago, the traffic snarl was monumental. Three major expressway routes into the city were torn up for massive repairs and even before the rush hour began, officials had predicted the worst jam in the city's history.

Philadelphia and other Northeast cities also reported automotive traffic considerable heavier than normal, but there were no insurmountable delays.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said the strike already had interrupted the weekly movement of 1,000 ammunition-carrying freight cars to the West Coast for transshipment to Vietnam, and called the stoppage effect on the war effort "immediate."

While some freights still rolled with perishables, hundreds more were shunted off the rails to icing and refrigeration points. The Southern Pacific Railroad rushed trucks to the San Fernando Valley and to Yuma, Ariz. to save the cantaloupe harvest. Officials worried about how to feed stranded livestock.

The strike gathered momentum Sunday, spreading from west to east and south as railroad men at yards and terminals along the nation's 216,000 miles of track moved trains to sidings, slammed down ticket windows and traded oil cans (Continued on Page 2)

Miss Universe Hopes Title Will Be Forgotten

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sylvia Hitchcock hopes that when her reign ends and she returns to school her classmates will forget she was Miss Universe.

"I'd rather be Sylvia," said the stunning 21-year-old brunette whose admirers say her smile convinced the judges she was the loveliest of the 56 contestants.

She will be a senior when she returns to the University of Alabama after her reign.

Sylvia, whose 5-foot-7½ inches are packed nicely into a 35½-24½-36½ frame, started life as a loser in beauty contests. She was the runnerup in a "Miss Smile" contest, a finalist in a teen-age beauty contest and usually a member of the court in high school beauty contests.

DuPont Offers $15,000 For Airport Construction

Alden Bray, manager of the Circleville DuPont plant, Monday told Pickaway County Commissioners that his firm was ready to contribute $15,000 towards construction of an airport here.

Bray said the money would be forthcoming, should the commissioners proceed with construction of a landing strip. He said, however, the facility must be at least 4,000 feet long and 100 feet wide.

DuPont officials recommend their larger planes land on strips 5,000 feet long if possible and they may not land on a strip less than 4,000 feet, Bray said.

The offer by DuPont carried no strings as far as location of the facility is concerned.

BRAY told commissioners the company would contribute to a landing strip at the Pickaway County Home site about four miles west of Circleville or to one equally advantageously located.

He noted the proposed site was about a 10 to 15 minute drive from the plant.

The local DuPont manager was quick to point out to commissioners Lloyd Melvin, Wayne Hines and Charles Morris that he would prefer a site located on Route 23 south of Circleville.

He reaffirmed his stand that the best solution would be for Ross and Pickaway County to combine their efforts.

"A joint county airport would undoubtedly be the best," he said.

"With state money available to each county and with the backing of industry in both counties, you could build a first-class airport. You commissioners have shown your willingness to go along with such a project. It is unfortunate that Ross County commissioners have been so stubborn about a joint airport."

Asa Elsea, chairman of the Circleville Junior Chamber of Commerce airport fund drive, accompanied Bray to the commissioners meeting today.

Elsea indicated the possibility existed that Ross industry might contribute to an airport site in Pickaway County near the line along Route 23.

"ROSS County industry has already said it will not support the proposed Murdock-Buchanan site northeast of Chillicothe. They might place funds in a (Continued on Page 2)

Surveyor May Have Crashed In Landing

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Plans called for America's Surveyor 4 spacecraft to land on the moon—which it did.

But scientists questioned today whether it landed gently, as planned, or went down with a crash. The odds, they said, favor the crash. Surveyor 4 wasn't talking.

After 9 Trips to Vietnam

McNamara Reports Show Change

NEW YORK (AP)—Since 1962, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has gone to South Vietnam nine times and after each visit a statement was issued on the war as it appeared then and an official estimate of the future course of events.

A vast difference stands between the first and ninth statements. It indicates three things:

1. The ability of the Vietnamese—demonstrated repeatedly in 2,000 years—to confound their enemies.

In wars of independence, they defeated the Chinese in the distant past and the French in the 1950s. After 1962, Vietnamese Communists escalated the war more rapidly and more effectively than American officials apparently anticipated.

2. Misplaced optimism in Washington.

In 1963, the White House issued a statement saying the "major part" of the U.S. military effort could be completed "by the end of 1965."

3. The problem of how much to report about the war and how frankly to report it.

Military men usually claim they must fog over the facts, or not state them at all, so as not to reveal information of value to the enemy, and to avoid damaging the morale of troops in the field and civilians at home. For example, in 1963 the New York Times quoted an official as saying, "I admit the press was sometimes lied to in Saigon in the past, but that does not mean that lying has continued and that the official word can never be taken at face value."

In any event, here are the nine statements issued following McNamara's trips and the events that followed:

1962—After a visit of two weeks, the secretary said the United States had "no plan for introducing combat forces into South Vietnam." He said he was "tremendously encouraged" by developments there. American forces then amounted to 8,000 men.

In October, six months later, American troop strength rose to 10,000. More significantly, they no longer were engaged solely in "training and transportation." Correspondents noted first and not merely returning that the soldiers were firing enemy fire.

1963—On Oct. 2, after a survey in Vietnam, McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor reported to Kennedy. The White House then issued a statement which said:

"(They) reported their judgment that the major part of the U.S. military task can be completed by the end of 1965, although there may be a continuing requirement for a limited number of U.S. training personnel.

Nearly all rail traffic in Ohio ground to a halt early today as a strike of the International Association of Machinists spread across the nation.

Engineers, trainmen and other operating personnel were observing picket lines. And pickets were posted Sunday night in Cleveland, Cincinnati, Toledo, Youngstown, Akron and many other rail centers.

Largest installation directly involving the strikers is the diesel shops of the New York Central System at Collinwood on Cleveland's East Side. It employs about 1,200.

In contrast, only one machinist is employed by the Ann Arbor Railroad at Toledo, and he was reported on vacation.

The NYC and Pennsylvania, major passenger lines serving Ohio, suspended operations at midnight Sunday.

So did the Cleveland - headquartered Erie Lackawanna which transports an estimated 35,000 New Jersey commuters daily.

The Chesapeake Ohio Railway, also Cleveland-based and a major carrier of coal, reported a "partial operation" Sunday night but was uncertain it could be maintained.

Three lake vessels were docked in Toledo waiting to take on coal at the BO-DO docks.

Miss Universe Hopes Title Will Be Forgotten

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Sylvia Hitchcock hopes that when her reign ends and she returns to school her classmates will forget she was Miss Universe.

"I'd rather be Sylvia," said the stunning 21-year-old brunette whose admirers say her smile convinced the judges she was the loveliest of the 56 contestants.

She will be a senior when she returns to the University of Alabama after her reign.

Sylvia, whose 5-foot-7½ inches are packed nicely into a 35½-24½-36½ frame, started life as a loser in beauty contests. She was the runnerup in a "Miss Smile" contest, a finalist in a teen-age beauty contest and usually a member of the court in high school beauty contests.

House leaders promised affirmative action on that plan although the House earlier struck the government-imposed settlement provision from the bill.

"We've had a year of talk. It's time for action," said Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

"I am sure the Congress will act affirmatively Monday," said

Datyon Youth Is Drag Race Victim

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The Montgomery County sheriff's office said a Dayton youth was killed this morning, the apparent victim of an auto drag race.

The death of Jim Hammer, 18, was ruled a traffic fatality. Sheriff's deputies said they had reports of youths drag racing in suburban Northridge. Hammer was found lying in the street. He apparently was struck by one of the cars.

DuPont Offers $15,000 For Airport Construction

Alden Bray, manager of the Circleville DuPont plant, Monday told Pickaway County Commissioners that his firm was ready to contribute $15,000 towards construction of an airport here.

Bray said the money would be forthcoming, should the commissioners proceed with construction of a landing strip. He said, however, the facility must be at least 4,000 feet long and 100 feet wide.

DuPont officials recommend their larger planes land on strips 5,000 feet long if possible and they may not land on a strip less than 4,000 feet, Bray said.

The offer by DuPont carried no strings as far as location of the facility is concerned.

Both will take over their new assignments Aug. 1, in Columbus parishes.

BRAY told commissioners the company would contribute to a

but there was no loading from a coal train on the adjacent siding.

There was some pickup in bus travel Sunday night but at the big Greyhound terminal in Cleveland a dispatcher said the increase was "nothing very exciting."

A special Erie Lackawanna train carrying a group of Clevelanders home from a Cleveland Press-sponsored tour to New York City was caught in the strike near Buffalo. But a crew of supervisors took over at Hornell, N. Y., early today and brought the train in to Cleveland.

Congress Now Moves To End Rail Walkout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Confronted by a crippling rail work stoppage and prodded by President Johnson, Congress moved today to end a month-long legislative impasse and quickly approve legislation to end the walkout.

Congressional leaders summoned to the White House Sunday in the walkout's early hours promised to get antistrike legislation to Johnson's desk by tonight. The strike was expected to affect 80 per cent of U.S. rail tonnage by noon.

Indications were that legislation would provide for a possible government-imposed settlement — a provision bitterly opposed by the unions.

But Joseph W. Ramsey, vice president of the Machinists Union whose locals began the walkout, said union national headquarters "would certainly urge respect for the law" if Congress acts.

Johnson used up his anti-strike powers earlier in the lengthy pay dispute between six shopcraft unions and most of the nation's railroads, so had nowhere to turn but to Congress for a new law.

The Senate and House each passed a no-strike bill this spring but a conference committee has been haggling about the differences for a month.

Congressional sources said the committee would be shunted aside and the Senate would pass anew its bill calling for a 90-day no-strike, intense-talks period followed by a government-imposed settlement if no voluntary agreement were reached.

House leaders promised affirmative action on that plan although the House earlier struck the government-imposed settlement provision from the bill.

"We've had a year of talk. It's time for action," said Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

"I am sure the Congress will act affirmatively Monday," said

Flow of Arms For Viet War Is Curtailed

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's biggest rail strike in 20 years virtually wiped out commuter service, cut ties between farm and market and partially blocked the flow of arms for Vietnam today.

Chances for quick congressional legislation that might end the walkout fell considerably. Senate and House conferees, who have been unable for several weeks to agree on legislation to prevent the strike, gave up again today on legislation to end the strike after one hour of talks and tossed the problem back to both houses.

Members said they still hoped, however, to approve a bill by tonight.

The White House has pressed in the day, Sen. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., head of the Senate delegation in the joint committee, had promised some sort of legislation by noon.

The walkout by 137,000 shopcraft union workers completely shut down 30 railroads — virtually the nation's entire rail complex, with only scattered parts of New England and the South escaping the strike.

Nearly 400,000 commuters used to catching trains into New York City, Chicago and Philadelphia fought their way instead onto highways or simply checked into city hotels to wait out the dispute.

Most of the commuter automobile traffic into New York moved slowly but smoothly although police reported that on some highways traffic was three times heavier than normal.

In Chicago, the traffic snarl was monumental. Three major expressway routes into the city were torn up for massive repairs and even before the rush hour began, officials had predicted the worst jam in the city's history.

Philadelphia and other Northeast cities also reported automotive traffic considerably heavier than normal, but there were no insurmountable delays.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said the strike already had interrupted the weekly movement of 1,000 ammunition-carrying freight cars to the West Coast for transshipment to Vietnam, and called the stoppage effect on the war effort "immediate."

While some freights still rolled with perishables, hundreds more were shunted off the rails to icing and refrigeration points. The Southern Pacific Railroad rushed trucks to the San Fernando Valley and to Yuma, Ariz. to save the cantaloupe harvest. Officials worried about how to feed stranded livestock.

The strike gathered momentum Sunday, spreading from west to east and south as railroad men at yards and terminals along the nation's 216,000 miles of track moved trains to sidings, slammed down ticket windows and traded oil cans

Riffle Youth Killed in Auto Crash

Thomas Riffle, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Riffle, Groveport, was killed in an auto crash Saturday night in Columbus.

The 19-year-old was also the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Brynne Riffle, Route 1, Circleville.

Three persons were killed and five others injured in the crash on Alum Creek Drive at Bixley Road. Police said drag racing was the cause of the crash.

Killed in the accident were Teddy Brown, 27, of Columbus; William Boring, 18, of Groveport, and Riffle.

ROBERT Riffle, brother of the deceased and driver of the auto, according to police, is listed in "fair" condition in Mercy Hospital.

According to police reports, Brown and Boring were passengers in one car which struck the Riffle auto at the intersection. The Riffle auto rolled over several times and caught fire.

Deputies at the scene said autos driven by Brown and Bruce Davis, 32, Rutland, O., were drag racing south on Alum Creek Drive when the accident occurred.

Services for Riffle will be held Wednesday 1 p.m. at Myers Funeral Home in Groveport.

DuPont . . .

Commissioners took the two visitors today that no county funds would be used to build the airport — a stand they have maintained since the airport was first proposed.

Commissioners believe the legislature will approve a bill again making $100,000 available for airport construction.

In addition to the $15,000 offered by DuPont, the Jaycees received pledges totaling $13,450. Both Bray and Elsea told commissioners that since DuPont had made its offer publicly, other industry in the area would follow with pledges for funds for airport construction.

Even if funds are raised, it is now apparent that commissioners will not proceed with the airport at the county home property, but will look elsewhere for land.

The solons admitted they had not considered the proximity of the Bible College in studying the location in Washington Twp.

"I WISH we had given the location a little more consideration before we spent the money for the survey," Commissioner Lloyd Melvin said today.

Commissioners also felt there would not be enough land available to widen the 75 foot county home site strip to 100 feet and to lengthen it to 4,000 feet.

Only the International Association of Machinists issued a strike call, but union men said they felt free to walk out after a year of wage disagreements and fruitless bargaining.

$8,000 Said Taken in Burglary

Investigation of an $8,000 home burglary was underway Monday by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Dept.

According to Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, the residence of Edith Boice of near Ashville was robbed early Sunday morning of cash and other valuables valued at nearly $8,000.

Radcliff said the home was completely ransacked. A 250-pound safe was taken from a cupboard in a rear room of the dwelling. According to Miss Boice, the safe contained between $5,000 and $6,000.

Also in the safe were diamond rings valued at $2,000, a .32 calibre handgun and personal papers. A .38 calibre revolver was also taken from another room in the rear of the house.

SHERIFF Radcliff said that detectives from the Bureau of Criminal Investigation have been called in to check for fingerprints.

A canvass of the immediate area Sunday gave the Sheriff an estimated time of the incident as 1:30 a.m. Dogs belonging to neighbors in the area created quite a disturbance at that time, said Radcliff.

Congress Now

While urging legislation, Johnson also directed Cabinet members to deal with problems raised by the rail stoppage.

"Let's not kid ourselves — we have chaos," said Alan S. Boyd, secretary of transportation. Johnson ordered him and other federal officials to fix priorities for use of transportation facilities not snagged by walkouts.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said the walkouts "will have an immediate effect on the movement of ammunition and heavy equipment to ports of embarkation for Vietnam and on the movement of supplies and materials necessary for production to support the Vietnam war."

Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien said: "I am urging every American to refrain from sending first class or air mail except where absolutely essential." His agency clamped a moratorium on acceptance of second, third and fourth class mail for destinations more than 150 miles from the sending point.

Boyd said other modes of transportation theoretically could take over 10 per cent of normal rail shipments — but he doesn't expect them to handle even that much.

Traffic Toll For Weekend In Ohio Is 26

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Multiple-fatality accidents on the Columbus freeway system helped account for an unusually heavy weekend traffic death toll in Ohio.

At least 26 persons died on Ohio's roads, highways and streets between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

Three Cleveland area men were killed Saturday when their car crashed on Columbus' North Freeway and two persons died earlier in the day when two autos collided on the city's innerbelt system.

Saturday night three persons died in a multiple vehicle crash on the Capital City's southeast side.

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP)—Newport police charged Robert Thomas Levell, 26, of Cincinnati with manslaughter today in the fatal shooting early Sunday of Nathaniel Davis, 25, also of Cincinnati.

Lewis W. Menk, president of the Northern Pacific, called the strike "artificially created" and said it was "imposed on American railroads by union leaders."

The stoppage, which the Department of Transportation estimated would cover about 80 per cent of the nation's rail lines, was the most widespread since 1946. A three-day strike of engineers and trainmen completely shut down the industry then.

Bus and airlines reported they were operating at full capacity, but spokesman for United Air Lines in New York said early today that no extra were being put on.

A ticket agent commented, "Actually, we don't expect too much long range traffic. Many of the train people just don't like to fly."

Part of the South and New England were less seriously hit than the rest of the country.

The Boston-Maine, the Vermont Central and the Delaware Hudson lines in the Northeast said they expected to maintain full service through Monday. Virtually no stoppages were reported on the six lines that serve New Orleans and the port of Houston.

But pickets paraded in both Louisiana and Texas—at Shreveport and at San Antonio. The Seaboard Coast line that runs down the Atlantic shore from New York to Florida said all its trains were canceled.

2 Men Are Shot In Police Chase

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two Cincinnati men were shot and another injured early today in a police chase which ended when the automobile in which the three were riding hit a retaining wall on a street in Cincinnati's west end.

Police said the car had been reported stolen.

John Sanders, 20, was taken to General Hospital but the extent of his wounds was not announced immediately. Paul Garrett, 32, was treated and released.

The third occupant of the car, whose name was not learned, suffered minor injuries in the crash.

Newark Has

dark. Gov. Richard J. Hughes said some bodies probably still lie undetected on roofs or inside buildings.

More than 1,100 persons have been hurt in the nation's worst racial riot since Watts in 1965. Property damage soared past $5 million.

Hughes said the 11 p.m. curfew throughout the city might be lifted Monday, and that collection might begin on the piles of garbage starting to rot in the cordoned-off Negro area that covers almost half this city of 400,000.

Three persons were killed Thursday, 11 Friday and 7 Saturday. Only two were white, a detective and a fire captain.

The 5,000 guardsmen who searched cars and suspicious persons in the riot area Sunday would stay, Hughes said, until the snipers are isolated and order is restored.

He made no reply to a demand from leaders of three civil rights organizations for the withdrawal of all armed forces as the necessary first step toward law and order.

A pullback, said the leaders of the Congress of Racial Equality, Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and United Community Corp. at a news conference, would give leaders a chance to reason with Negro militants.

The demand headed a list that included immediate creation of a citizen-controlled panel to review charges of police brutality, immediate payment of welfare checks and delivery of food, suspended when the area was sealed off.

James Hooper, chairman of the Newark CORE chapter, said poor housing, overcrowded schools on split sessions and discrimination in the city administration's employment policy were some of the reasons for longstanding resentment in the Negro community.

"We pleaded with the mayor to do something about these things for years," said Hooper. "But all he'd say was, 'If you don't like what I'm doing, then vote me out if you can.'"

Slightly more than half of Newark's population is Negro.

Police have arrested more than 1,300, including many juveniles.

Hundreds remain in custody because of failure to raise bonds ranging from $500 to $10,000.

Rosa sheriff's dispatcher H.C. Crawford quoted a surviving prisoner brought to the county jail at nearby Milton. All eight unarmed convicts were jailed there overnight.

"Somebody hollered 'fire,'" Gerold Milligan, the prisoner, was quoted as saying. Milligan said he was sitting on his bunk removing his shoes. Then, he said, the fire "swept the whole top of the building."

"They began to pass out," Milligan said. He said he ducked under beds and crawled toward the locked door holding his nose.

Just as he reached the door a guard opened it and Milligan escaped the flames with only his hair singed.

Chief Deputy Harvell Enginger confirmed Mayne's report that the fire flashed through the barracks when the fluorescent light, torn from the ceiling, touched off escaping gas. Enginger said the fight went from one end of the barracks to the other, but couldn't say how many persons were involved.

en miles above the moon, all contact was lost.

Controllers went through the normal landing routine, shutting off equipment, trying to test components, but they got no response.

"It will take several hours at least before we can be certain what happened," Haglund said. "There are many possibilities but one of those uppermost in my mind is that there may have been an explosion in the rocket case just before burnout."

"We can't rule out the possibility, however, that the spacecraft may have landed safely."

Other possibilities included a simple electronics failure, even a collision with a meteorite.

Scientists tracking the spindly looking, three-legged spacecraft lost contact shortly after 7 p.m., just seconds before Surveyor 4 was scheduled to land in a rugged area called Sinus Medii, or Central Bay, in the center of the visible side of the moon.

The proposed landing area, as shown in photographs taken by earlier spacecraft, is known to be extremely rugged, marked by rocks, craters and ridges.

Scientists planned to photograph some of the rugged terrain, use Surveyor's hand-size scoop shovel and test the soil for the presence of iron.

Riffle Youth Killed in Auto Crash

Thomas Riffle, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Riffle, Groveport, was killed in an auto crash Saturday night in Columbus.

The 19-year-old was also the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Bryson Riffle, Route 1, Circleville.

Three persons were killed and five others injured in the crash on Alum Creek Drive at Bixley Road. Police said drag racing was the cause of the crash.

Killed in the accident were Teddy Brown, 27, of Columbus; William Boring, 18, Groveport, and Riffle.

ROBERT Riffle, brother of the deceased and driver of the auto, according to police, is listed in "fair" condition in Mercy Hospital.

According to police reports, Brown and Boring were passengers in one car which struck the Riffle auto at the intersection. The Riffle auto rolled over several times and caught fire.

Deputies at the scene said autos driven by Brown and Bruce Davis, 32, Rutland, O., were drag racing south on Alum Creek Drive when the accident occurred.

Services for Riffle will be held Wednesday 1 p.m. at Myers Funeral Home in Groveport.

Prints made by gloved hands were observed by investigating officers on the glass.

Nothing else was disturbed.

A Circleville area man was taken to Berger Hospital's emergency room during the weekend after sustaining possible internal injuries when he was rammed in the stomach by a bull.

Gene Kerns, 28, Route 1, was released from the hospital after examination for internal injuries. Kerns was among 13 persons who required emergency treatment following non-vehicle accidents.

Duane Miller, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Miller, 148 Pontious Lane, received contusions to the fingers of his left hand on an adding machine at home.

Robert Roshon, 34, Amanda, broke his left thumb and lacerated his thumb nail when a rock fell from a bank, while he was working for the Ohio Pipe Line Co.

DuPont . . .

Commissioners told the two visitors today that no county funds would be used to build the airport — a stand they have maintained since the airport was first proposed.

Commissioners believe the legislature will approve a bill again making $100,000 available for airport construction.

In addition to the $15,000 offered by DuPont, the Jaycees received pledges totaling $13,450. Both Bray and Elsen told commissioners that since DuPont had made its offer publicly, other industry in the area would follow with pledges for funds for airport construction.

Even if funds are raised, it is now apparent that commissioners will not proceed with the airport at the county home property, but will look elsewhere for land.

The solons admitted they had not considered the proximity of the Bible College in studying the location in Washington Twp.

"I WISH we had given the location a little more consideration before we spent the money for the survey," Commissioner Lloyd Melvin said today.

Commissioners also felt there would not be enough land available to widen the 75 foot county home site strip to 100 feet and to lengthen it to 4,000 feet.

and wrenches for picket signs. The work stoppages began after the expiration at midnight Sunday of an agreement between the six unions and Congress. Only the International Association of Machinists issued a strike call, but union men said they felt free to walk out after a year of wage disagreements and fruitless bargaining.

"Now we're tired of waiting. Our people just can't live on $3.06 an hour," said W. J. Staudenmaier, a Philadelphia machinists union leader. "We're not strike-happy, but something just had to be done."

$8,000 Said Taken in Burglary

Investigation of an $8,000 home burglary was underway Monday by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Dept.

According to Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, the residence of Edith Boice of near Ashville was robbed early Sunday morning of cash and other valuables valued at nearly $8,000.

Radcliff said the home was completely ransacked. A 250-pound safe was taken from a cupboard in a rear room of the dwelling. According to Miss Boice, the safe contained between $5,000 and $6,000.

Also in the safe were diamond rings valued at $2,000, a 22-caliber hand gun and personal papers. A .38 calibre revolver was also taken from another room in the rear of the house.

SHERIFF Radcliff said that detectives from the Bureau of Criminal Investigation have been called in to check for fingerprints.

A canvass of the immediate area Sunday gave the Sheriff an estimated time of the incident as 1:30 a.m. Dogs belonging to neighbors in the area created quite a disturbance at that time, said Radcliff.

While urging legislation, Johnson also directed Cabinet members to deal with problems raised by the rail stoppage.

"Let's not kid ourselves — we have chaos," said Alan S. Boyd, secretary of transportation. Johnson ordered him and other federal officials to fix priorities for use of transportation facilities not snagged by walkouts.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said the walkouts "will have an immediate effect on the movement of ammunition and heavy equipment to ports of embarkation for Vietnam and on the movement of supplies and materials necessary for production to support the Vietnam war."

Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien said: "I am urging every American to refrain from sending first class or air mail except where absolutely essential." His agency clamped a moratorium on acceptance of second, third and fourth class mail for destinations more than 150 miles from the sending point.

Boyd said other modes of transportation theoretically could take over 10 per cent of normal rail shipments — but he doesn't expect them to handle even that much.

Traffic Toll For Weekend In Ohio Is 26

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Multiple-fatality accidents on the Columbus freeway system helped account for an unusually heavy weekend traffic death toll in Ohio.

At least 26 persons died on Ohio's roads, highways and streets between 6 p.m. Friday and midnight Sunday.

Three Cleveland area men were killed Saturday when their car crashed on Columbus' North Freeway and two persons died earlier in the day when two autos collided on the city's innerbelt system.

Saturday night three persons died in a multiple vehicle crash on the Capital City's southeast side.

dark. Gov. Richard J. Hughes said some bodies probably still lie undetected on roofs or inside buildings.

More than 1,100 persons have been hurt in the nation's worst racial riot since Watts in 1965. Property damage soared past $5 million.

Hughes said the 11 p.m. curfew throughout the city might be lifted Monday, and that collection might begin on the piles of garbage starting to rot in the cordoned-off Negro area that covers almost half this city of 400,000.

Three persons were killed Thursday, 11 Friday and 7 Saturday. Only two were white, a detective and a fire captain.

The 5,000 guardsmen who searched cars and suspicious persons in the riot area Sunday would stay, Hughes said, until the snipers are isolated and order is restored.

He made no reply to a demand from leaders of three civil rights organizations for the withdrawal of all armed forces as the necessary first step toward law and order.

A pullback, said the leaders of the Congress of Racial Equality, Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee and United Community Corp. at a news conference, would give leaders a chance to reason with Negro militants.

The demand headed a list that included immediate creation of a citizen-controlled panel to review charges of police brutality, immediate payment of welfare checks and delivery of food, suspended when the area was sealed off.

James Hooper, chairman of the Newark CORE chapter, said poor housing, overcrowded schools on split sessions and discrimination in the city administration's employment policy were some of the reasons for longstanding resentment in the Negro community.

"We pleaded with the mayor to do something about these things for years," said Hooper. "But all he'd say was, 'If you don't like what I'm doing, then vote me out if you can.'"

Slightly more than half of Newark's population is Negro.

Police have arrested more than 1,300, including many juveniles.

Hundreds remain in custody because of failure to raise bonds ranging from $50 to $10,000.

Rosa sheriff's dispatcher H.C. Crawford quoted a surviving prisoner brought to the county jail at nearby Milton. All eight unharmed convicts were jailed there overnight.

"Somebody hollered 'fire,'" Gerold Milligan, the prisoner, was quoted as saying. Milligan said he was sitting on his bunk removing his shoes. Then, he said, the fire "swept the whole top of the building."

"They began to pass out," Milligan said. He said he ducked under beds and crawled toward the locked door holding his nose.

Just as he reached the door a guard opened it and Milligan escaped the flames with only his hair singed.

Chief Deputy Harvell Enginger confirmed Mayne's report that the fire flashed through the barracks when the fluorescent light, torn from the ceiling, touched off escaping gas. Enginger said the light went from one end of the barracks to the other, but couldn't say how many persons were involved.

Sheriff Probes Orient Burglary

A breaking and entering report was received by the Pickaway County Sheriff's office concerning an incident which occurred at the Orient Farmer's Exchange.

Investigation by Sheriff's deputies and officials of the firm showed that six men's wrist watches were taken. Nothing else was reported missing.

Entry to the store was gained through a window.

The incident is still under investigation.

en miles above the moon, all contact was lost.

Controllers went through the normal landing routine, shutting off equipment, trying to test components, but they got no response.

"It will take several hours at least before we can be certain what happened," Haglund said.

"There are many possibilities but one of those uppermost in my mind is that there may have been an explosion in the rocket case just before burnout.

"We can't rule out the possibility, however, that the spacecraft may have landed safely."

Other possibilities included a simple electronics failure, even a collision with a meteorite.

Scientists tracking the spindly looking, three-legged spacecraft lost contact shortly after 7 p.m., just seconds before Surveyor 4 was scheduled to land in a rugged area called Sinus Medii, or Central Bay, in the center of the visible side of the moon.

The proposed landing area, as shown in photographs taken by earlier spacecraft, is known to be extremely rugged, marked by rocks, craters and ridges.

Scientists planned to photograph some of the rugged terrain, use Surveyor's hand-size scoop shovel and test the soil for the presence of iron.

Donald A. Haight, 27, of 144 Griner Road, failed to stop for a red light and was fined $15 and costs with the fine suspended.

Alfred S. Heeter, 35, of 324 Mowrer Road, was fined $30 and costs with one-half the fine suspended for not maintaining assured clear distance ahead.

William Clements, 27, Neuding Trailer Court, was fined $10 and costs for speeding 43 miles an hour in a 35 mile zone.

Raymond Brungs, 42, Route 5, was fined $10 and costs for speeding 45 miles an hour in a 35 mile zone.

James W. Collins, 18, Route 1, Kingstons, forfeited $19 for speeding 44 miles an hour in a 35 mile zone.

Howard Blankenship, 57, Route 1, Chillicothe, forfeited a $34 bond for operating an unsafe vehicle.

Joseph Carey, 39, Medina, appeared in court and was fined $10 and costs with the fine suspended for speeding 70 miles an hour in a 60 mile zone.

Joy Diana Gilbert, 19, Columbus, and Glenn Ratcliff, 34, Bellville, were each fined $25 and costs for speeding 80 miles an hour in a 60 mile zone.

Hubert Webb, 41, Chillicothe, was fined $15 and costs for speeding 75 miles in a 60 mile zone.

Cost of War

The administration underestimated the cost of the Vietnam war in the 1966-67 budget by $10 billion. As a consequence, inflationary pressures increased, and because the White House relied solely on monetary policy to cool the overheated economy, credit tightened and interest rates soared.

The current sluggishness in the economy can be ascribed to White House inaction last year.

Had it been known early in the spring of 1966, says a report of the Joint Economic Committee of Congress, that extra billions would be appropriated for the Vietnam war, "Congress certainly would have given more serious consideration to a tax increase or a spending cut and quite probably would have enacted one or the other or both."

Happy Decision

Lake Champlain, largest lake in the northeast, should remain as it is. A joint U. S.-Canadian commission has reached this decision after a five-year study of a plan to connect the 137-mile-long lake with the St. Lawrence River for purposes of commercial navigation.

The plan entailed linking Montreal on the St. Lawrence with Albany on the Hudson River by improving the Richelieu River north of the lake and the Apparently the White House profited little from last year's distressing experience. For again the nation faces what the committee calls "the same dreary cycle of events."

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

What is an echo virus? Can it cause severe pain in the chest?

Both parts of the question are unrelated to each other except for the fact that a virus other than Echo may cause a pain in the chest.

Echo viruses take their name from the first letter of a group of viruses called Enteric Cytopathogenic Human Orphan. These viruses are found in the intestinal tract more frequently in children than in adults.

It is exceedingly difficult to find a virus even with the most complicated studies. Fortunately, the disease caused by the Echo virus is usually uncomplicated and recovery is rapid in most instances.

The word "Echo" has caught on and become a popular self-diagnosed reason for many symptoms. It almost sounds sporty to have it, especially as a "first in the community."

Now, about the pain in the chest. Another group of viruses known as the Coxsackie type can cause severe pain in the chest.

After a few days of incubation the illness begins with headache, fever and sharp pains in the lower part of the chest and the upper abdomen. The pain in the chest is so severe that sometimes it is confused with infections of the gall bladder and the appendix.

A cough or a sneeze or even deep breathing can cause so severe a spasm as to name the condition, "The Devil's Grippe."

This unusual condition occurs in epidemic form in local communities. The virus is usually transmitted from one person to another or through contaminated milk or water.

This condition does not lead to complications. Recovery usually occurs in a few days.

Can the scars on the face caused by severe acne be removed by operation?

The pitting and scarring that sometimes result from severe adolescent acne are very distressing to young adults. Many of these scars can be the result of squeezing "whiteheads" and infecting the skin.

There is now a very successful technique called dermabrasion. As the name suggests the skin is planed with a rapidly rotating brush until the surface around the "pit" is level. The skin is first anesthetized so that the procedure is really a painless one.

Nature abhors a vacuum, and the New York City newsstands, bereft of afternoon newspaper competition, have blossomed with some lulu examples of the "underground press." The "Village Voice," which is the official organ of what has been called the "prophetic minority," meaning the New Left, is the most respectable of the breed. Its articles are not wholly bereft of logical sequence. The "Village Voice," of course, derives from Greenwich Village proper—the old "west" village which once supported genuine poets such as Edna St. Vincent Millay, genuine students of Marxism such as Max Eastman, and genuine novelists such as Willa Cather and Floyd Dell. The new West Village crowd is hardly as creative as its predecessor generations, but at least there is some pretense to intellectual continuity.

For the real hallucinatory stuff that is flooding the stands in the absence of a decent variety of afternoon dailies, the organ of the new "east" village, a rag called "The East Village Other," has to be seen to be believed. "The East Village Other" is off on what might be called an appropriate kick, trying to fashion for the LSD and the acid-head crowd a tradition rooted in what Lewis Mumford and Waldo Frank, a couple of Greenwich Villagers of a healthier day called "the usable past." In the July 15-20 issue of "The EVO" there is a blown-up picture of the new U.S. postage stamp which commemorates the 150th anniversary of the birth of Henry David Thoreau, the Concord (Mass.) philosopher. Naturally, Thoreau is pictured with a beard (they wore them in the nineteenth century, you know), and there have been well-meaning but stupid criticisms of the new stamp on the ground that it makes Thoreau look like a "hippie." For that matter, beards do the same for pictures of General Ulysses S. Grant and President Abe Lincoln. "The EVO" proudly accepts the idea of Thoreau's hippiness: "Indeed," it says, "Thoreau was one of America's first hippies."

Well, Thoreau opposed the Mexican War and went to jail rather than pay taxes to support it. But, unlike most of our contemporary Vietnams who manage to stay out of jail, Thoreau was willing to accept the consequences of his acts. He did not wish to eat his cake of civil disobedience and still have it.

The editors of "The EVO" can't make Thoreau over into a forefather of the modern hippies no matter how hard they try. For Thoreau believed above all in the concept of competence. He worked for his living, making pencils and selling them. When he went off for that sabbatical at Walden Pond, the point he was intent on proving was that he could support himself. He built his cabin with his own hands, he planted and harvested his own beans, he observed nature minutely and recorded what he saw with a naturalist's accuracy. He disdained living off the government, and he wanted no remittance from family or foundation.

In short, Thoreau had no truck with hippie behavior. He was a true individualist who did not have to huddle for warmth with the crowd.

The old press that has died in New York City perished for lack of well-defined personality. The Republican papers were like the Democratic papers, all flowing in a mainstream of incurable blandness. But the old press at least had clarity. The new press that seems to be taking over on the New York City newsstands in these summer afternoons is a triumph of mindless obfuscation. The hippies have one refrain: love. But the hippie press can't do any more than reiterate that refrain. People ought to love one another, but you can't make a literature or a civilization by saying it over and over again. Thoreau was no great man for hating, but he knew that the world needed other things than a bland pacifism. It needed planning and sweat to build a cabin by Walden Pond; it needed technical proficiency to make pencils and to sell them.

The hippies can't have Thoreau. Thoreau belongs to a lot of us who are bored to death by the new psychedelic mindlessness that seems to be conquering the New York City newsstands.

The Business World

NEW YORK (AP)—Could the Air Force have saved many millions of dollars by awarding an electronic computer contract to a company other than International Business Machines Corp.?

Competitors of IBM, which in terms of dollars has sold about 70 per cent of all computer equipment in this country, say yes.

The Air Force, which originally selected IBM for the job, said now for several weeks. Now, however, it has agreed to reopen contract talks.

The Air Force decision, announced during the weekend, followed criticism from competitive companies that their offers to supply the computers were around $50 million lower than the IBM bid.

The Air Force did not specify its reasons for reconsidering bids on the order, which is expected to be the biggest single contract for computers ever made. But industry sources here said IBM's competitors were worked up about this case as they never have before.

Now that the Air Force has decided to consider the other bids it might save itself the embarrassments of listening to witnesses accuse it of wasting millions at the very time government agencies are supposed to be paring expenses. But its procurement methods remain questionable.

This controversy is the latest of many in electronic computing, an industry which is growing faster than any other in America. And controversy has attracted Washington's attention.

This wasn't always so. For the first of its 15 years or so, the industry projected a cool and uncomplicated image. If business wasn't profitable for most companies, their complaints at least were muted by prospects of future rewards.

Washington's chief concern in those years was as a customer, the biggest customer the industry ever had. But Washington's interest now has become investigative.

Checking one aspect or another of the industry are the General Accounting Office, three House subcommittees, a Senate subcommittee, the Justice department and perhaps other agencies as well.

This Tuesday the Senate permanent subcommittee on Investigations had scheduled closed-door hearings, now postponed, to which several computer manufacturers had been invited to testify on the huge Air Force order.

The chief purpose of the hearings was to have been the contention of Honeywell Inc. that its bid was about one-half that of IBM. Burroughs and Radio Corp. of America also are believed to have submitted similar bids.

This provided the ingredients for some arguments that undoubtedly would have hinted at scandal, especially since the Justice department already is studying competition or the lack of it, in the industry.

In its defense, the Air Force said its selection of IBM was based on an elaborate and highly objective evaluation system. Only IBM passed all tests, it said, presumably leaving it the only possible candidate.

The critical test was cost—NO the original cost of the equipment but the total cost of its operation over a six-year period, the Air Force said. Measured this way, "we found that the cost difference between IBM and a losing vendor was not of significant magnitude."

It scoffed at the idea that $50 million could be saved, terming such reports "highly distorted." But in agreeing to reconsider the bids it apparently believes some savings may be made.

One of the most fascinating questions of the year may never be answered though. The question: What constitutes a sum "not of significant magnitude?" All we know is that it is something less than $50 million.

Cost of War

The administration underestimated the cost of the Vietnam war in the 1966-67 budget by $10 billion. As a consequence, inflationary pressures increased, and because the White House relied solely on monetary policy to cool the overheated economy, credit tightened and interest rates soared.

The current sluggishness in the economy can be ascribed to White House inaction last year.

Had it been known early in the spring of 1966, says a report of the Joint Economic Committee of Congress, that extra billions would be appropriated for the Vietnam war, "Congress certainly would have given more serious consideration to a tax increase or a spending cut and quite probably would have enacted one or the other or both."

Happy Decision

Lake Champlain, largest lake in the northeast, should remain as it is. A joint U. S.-Canadian commission has reached this decision after a five-year study of a plan to connect the 137-mile-long lake with the St. Lawrence River for purposes of commercial navigation.

The plan entailed linking Montreal on the St. Lawrence with Albany on the Hudson River by improving the Richelieu River north of the lake and the

Can the scars on the face caused by severe acne be removed by operation?

The pitting and scarring that sometimes result from severe adolescent acne are very distressing to young adults. Many of these scars can be the result of squeezing "whiteheads" and infecting the skin.

There is now a very successful technique called dermabrasion. As the name suggests the skin is planed with a rapidly rotating brush until the surface around the "pit" is level. The skin is first anesthetized so that the procedure is really a painless one.

There are other techniques that must be avoided. A number of non-medical people have been using a dangerous "phenol" method for scars and wrinkles. Severe burns of the face have resulted from this method which has been classed by the American Medical Association under the heading of "Quackery."

Skin specialists have improved the abrasion technique as a substitute for surgery so that the results are now remarkably successful and gratifying. Scars that were unsightly are now made barely visible.

In some cases, it is necessary to repeat the abrasion in order to obtain a perfect result. Doctors are exceedingly careful to choose only the cases most suitable for this method.

Overexposure to the sun with its painful burns cannot be prevented entirely by sunburn creams and lotions.

Washington's chief concern in those years was as a customer, the biggest customer the industry ever had. But Washington's interest now has become investigative.

Checking one aspect or another of the industry are the General Accounting Office, three House subcommittees, a Senate subcommittee, the Justice department and perhaps other agencies as well.

This Tuesday the Senate permanent subcommittee on Investigations had scheduled closed-door hearings, now postponed, to which several computer manufacturers had been invited to testify on the huge Air Force order.

The chief purpose of the hearings was to have been the contention of Honeywell Inc. that its bid was about one-half that of IBM. Burroughs and Radio Corp. of America also are believed to have submitted similar bids.

This provided the ingredients for some arguments that undoubtedly would have hinted at scandal, especially since the Justice department already is studying competition or the lack of it, in the industry.

In its defense, the Air Force said its selection of IBM was based on an elaborate and highly objective evaluation system. Only IBM passed all tests, it said, presumably leaving it the only possible candidate.

The critical test was cost—NO the original cost of the equipment but the total cost of its operation over a six-year period, the Air Force said. Measured this way, "we found that the cost difference between IBM and a losing vendor was not of significant magnitude."

It scoffed at the idea that $50 million could be saved, terming such reports "highly distorted." But in agreeing to reconsider the bids it apparently believes some savings may be made.

One of the most fascinating questions of the year may never be answered though. The question: What constitutes a sum "not of significant magnitude?"

All we know is that it is something less than $50 million.

TOPLESS BAND MEMBERS GET SUMMONS—Three members of the "Ladybirds" topless girls' band wait patiently as a detective writes a summons following their appearance at the Crystal Room in New York City.

Dear Abby: Divorced Woman Breaking Up Home

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: For the past two years my husband has had a young woman in his department who seems to be the topic of conversation all over town. She is about 30, has been divorced twice, and, I am told, has some very unconventional ideas about men and morals.

She openly dates married men and has been heard to say, "If a woman can't hold her husband, it's not my fault."

Whenever her name comes up, my husband defends her—saying she's a "nice" girl who is sick on only one subject. Men! She flirts brazenly and tells off-color stories, but because she is pretty she gets away with it.

I have been in a state of turmoil over this for some time, and cannot accept the fact that she is "nice." I'm about ready to give up. I don't want to demand that my husband let her go, but I wish she would be transferred out of his department. (Out of the city would be better yet.) What should I do about this situation?

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I are newlyweds. She wants to have a dinner party and invite all her old boy friends. All these fellows are still single. I told her I didn't think much of the idea.

She says she wants to maintain them as "platonic" friends, and besides they all gave her lovely wedding gifts so she thinks she "owes" them a dinner. I say they all received thank-you notes for their gifts just as the others did. We would like your opinion.

NEWLYWEDS
DEAR ABBY: A wedding gift doesn't necessarily call for a dinner invitation. If your bride really wants to invite these ex-beaus to dinner in order to maintain them as platonic friends, she should ask them to bring their own girls.

But if she has in mind surrounding herself with the old guard to make them squirm and feel like losers, she should forget it lest she make them feel like winners.

DEAR ABBY: I've read about almost every kind of oddball in your column except this one. My husband does all the grocery shopping because he "enjoys" it. Besides the regular things, he buys all kinds of goodies for himself, like candy, potato chips, nuts, etc. And he hides his goodies so he won't have to share them.

He is a very wealthy man, Abby, but you'd never know it. What makes people act like this?

JUST WONDERS
DEAR JUST: Could it be that your husband is a calorie counter who doesn't want anyone to know how much he indulges? Or that he doesn't want YOU to get fat?

Or perhaps he enjoys something more when he "sneaks" it—a mild and not uncommon quirk. Anyway, you two must have fun playing hide and seek.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JIMMY'S GIRL: Nonsense. If he really loved you he'd get a shave and a haircut just because you asked him to. But on the other hand, if you really loved him (he will say), you wouldn't raise the question knowing why he raised the beard.

Parental Liability May Go Up to $1,000

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Parents could be liable for up to $1,000 property damage by their children under a bill due for passage tonight in the Ohio Senate.

The House-approved measure increasing the present liability from $250 is among five on the Senate calendar as lawmakers return from weekend recess. The House will call up eight bills for floor votes.

With tax talk continuing to mount around the Statehouse, observers said committee hearings this week should shed some light on what taxes will be raised and by how much.

A subcommittee of the Senate Ways and Means Committee said it hoped to have a decision by Thursday on the administration's omnibus bill to raise $252 million in additional funds for education.

As written, the bill calls for a 1 per cent tax on gross receipts to bring in the lion's share of the new revenue. But that proposal has drawn too much criticism from retailers and others that it probably will be scrapped.

The best bet, according to reliable sources, will be a boost from 3 per cent to 4 per cent in the sales tax and possible expansion of the sales tax base to include some services.

This week also may bring action on the administration's school foundation bill which is before a subcommittee of the Senate Health, Education, and Welfare Committee. It has been held up pending word on the omnibus tax bill which would supply $180 million in additional school subsidies in the 1967-69 biennium. The remaining $72 million in the tax bill would go to higher education.

Hearings this week sure to draw wide attention include those scheduled by the House Government Operations Committee on Sunday sale of liquor. They are set for Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Burns Fatal To Employee

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—Burns received in a fire at a Sharon Steel Corp. plant Saturday were fatal Sunday to Eugene Heffner, 67, of Niles. A 30-year employee, Heffner was to have retired in seven weeks.

Two other employees, John Bosko and Edward Burnfield, both of Warren, were treated for burns.

Automakers Helping Boost Steel Market

CLEVELAND (AP)—"Automotive industry buying of light, flat rolled products for August delivery is giving steel demand an upward nudge," Steel magazine reported today.

"Along with some purchasing by appliance manufacturers, it's brightening the outlook for the immediate future," the metal-working weekly said. "Although volume is conservative, probably because of the approaching auto labor negotiations, virtually all of the mills indicate orders are larger than they had anticipated."

Steel said some industry sources think the spurt in orders can be traced to low steel inventories in automotive plants just when the changeover to new model runs is getting underway.

"They feel the automakers must rebuild stockpiles to safer levels, even though new model production runs may be cut short by a strike in September," Steel said.

As a result of increase in automotive buying, steelmaking operations snapped back quickly after the July 4 holiday. Steel estimated production of raw steel in the week ended July 15 totaled 2,164,000 net tons, up 1 per cent from the 2,143,000 tons produced in the preceding week.

Although steel sales and production have improved, demand for steelmaking scrap was reported sluggish. Steel's price composite on top grade steel scrap remained at $26.83 per gross ton.

400 Million To Visit Federal Parks In 1967

WASHINGTON (AP)—Uncle Sam is expecting more than 400 million visitors to his federal lands and waters this year.

The summer welcome mat is out for bird watchers, canoeists, water skiers, hunters, fishermen, boaters, swimmers, sunbathers, rock hounds, picnickers, campers, hikers and just plain strollers.

The 400-million mark would set a record. Last year there were 375 million visitors, up 26 million, or 8 per cent, over the previous year.

More and more people are living in the city—nearly 75 per cent of America's 190 million people live on 1 per cent of the land, the National Park Service says.

More and more people are "getting out" for outdoor recreation in the country, the woods and the lakes—"more and more people are turning to this as a substitute for the tranquilizer and the aspirin," says John S. Gottschalk, director of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife.

The Bureau of Outdoor Recreation estimates that more than 90 per cent of the population participates annually in outdoor recreation, that a $20-billion-a-year industry is based on it and that local, state and federal government expenditure for it is a billion dollars or more a year.

Seven federal agencies have opened their lands and waters to the public for recreation.

They include the Forest Service, with 186 million acres of land in 41 states; the National Park Service with 27 million acres of land; the Army Corps of Engineers with its reservoirs and waterways; the Tennessee Valley Authority with its network of dams and lakes; the Bureau of Land Management, with 457 million acres of public domain in Alaska and 11 Western states.

They reported to Congress this year problems in handling their ever-increasing total of visitors.

The Bureau of Land Management said it had developed camping and picnicking units at 151 locations and estimated these would accommodate only one-third of the visitors to its land.

E.P. Cliff, chief of the Forest Service, said that the lack of developed sites capacity was forcing people to use undeveloped areas, creating major sanitation and public safety problems.

The Forest Service said it had 9,500 developed recreation sites and it cost about $1,150 annually to clean up each site. It asked Congress for $10.8 million just to finance an acceptable cleanup job at the sites and another $11.4 million to develop additional ones.

The Forest Service land, with 57.5 million visits, led all the other federal lands and waters in visitor popularity last year.

But there always will be bird watchers. In the last survey of national recreation, in 1965, figures showed 52 million people, 12 years old and over, went fishing, hunting, or both and some nine million people engaged in bird watching away from their own homes.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—There was too much light for the photographers but not enough to make clear what "as we feel it necessary" means.

The President had conferred lengthily last week with Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. commander in Vietnam, and Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Then he took them into the White House sitting room and called in newsmen and photographers. The photographers weren't happy with what they found. President Johnson sat on a chair and the other three men on a sofa by a big window.

There was too much brightness behind them for good pictures because the photographers had to shoot into the light. Even so, it was more light, in a way, than the newsmen got from the answers to their questions.

Johnson has always been a great believer in consensus. It was one of the reasons for his success in the 1950s as Senate majority leader. He was very successful at getting opposing sides to agree on some middle ground.

It seemed clear after the sitting-room session that perhaps Johnson's main purpose in calling the news conference was to get across the idea of harmony, that he and McNamara had agreed on sending more troops to Vietnam.

But there never seemed any doubt more troops would be sent anyway. The question still unanswered after the news conference was: How many? Neither Johnson nor the others ever cleared that up.

It may turn out to be a very delicate and critical question.

McNamara and Westmoreland had met a few days before in Vietnam where the general, according to reports from there, wanted more troops than McNamara may have been inclined to send.

Neither man, in Vietnam or here, ever revealed publicly just how many more men Westmoreland requested. But McNamara was said to have told the general he ought to make better use of the 460,000 troops already there.

Johnson and Wheeler didn't get into numbers, either. Johnson simply told newsmen all four of them were "in agreement on our needs." He didn't explain the needs and Westmoreland said he was being provided with all the forces he recommended.

All this may have been intended to keep the enemy guessing but it is also an effective way to keep Americans at home from getting exasperated or indignant because too many were to be sent or not enough.

But from what Johnson and Westmoreland said you could get the impression the general was getting just what he wanted except for a phrase Johnson used at the very moment he was emphasizing the all-around agreement.

"Yes," the President said, "we have reached a meeting of the minds. The troops that Gen. Westmoreland needs and requests, as we feel it necessary, will be sent."

The President left unexplained what he meant by "we," whether it was an editorial "we," meaning the President alone, or a much broader "we," meaning himself, McNamara and the general.

Johnson did say 20,000 or 30,000 more men would be sent—they had already been scheduled to go—and more would follow. The big vagueness was about how many more.

Since Johnson is president, he will have the last word on what "we think is necessary" in the way of more troops. So, even though there was a "meeting of the minds" on giving Westmoreland all the troops the general thinks he needs, Westmoreland won't get them unless Johnson thinks he needs them.

But Johnson accomplished three things for himself while revealing nothing.

He gave the impression of harmony, whether there is or not; he avoided a rain of arguments for and against and free advice if he laid down specific numbers now; and he gave himself time to maneuver and suit himself about troops as the war goes on.

From his standpoint the sitting room session was worthwhile.

Views on Television — Radio

EDITOR'S NOTE — Sheldon Leonard, who once played the sinister race track tout on Jack Benny's shows, has become a television legend—a man with a golden touch for comedy. As Danny Thomas's long-time producer-partner, he was involved in such success stories as "The Danny Thomas Show," "The Andy Griffith Show," "The Dick Van Dyke Show" and, now on his own, "I Spy" on NBC. Here he explains his methods.

By SHELDON LEONARD

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Frequently I've been asked which comes first, the plot or the personality.

Presuming the query relates to dramatic films, as opposed to variety shows, I really cannot believe that there is any question as to the best place to start. The plot, of course, must be the jumping-off point.

Every dramatic vehicle must have a framework. It is the stuff from which your character relationships ultimately spring. And if you're as lucky as we are with "I Spy," you get talents like Bob Culp and Bill Cosby and let them have their head to lend their own interpretation to those relationships. But, always within the guidelines of the plot which has long-since been established—always, that is, if you can expect your property to sell in the first place, and to endure.

Culp and Cosby both would be the first to admit that four years ago, prior to "I Spy" becoming a TV entry, neither was a "personality" in the frame of reference we use to describe that performer with a following that demanded his being given a series. Dick Van Dyke, by the way, was in the same position prior to his series debut. There was no "Bob Culp type" or "Bill Cosby type" around which we could really design a weekly show.

But while we didn't have the "personalities" in the beginning, we did have two of the most professional talents in the business who by dint of such qualities plus their own creativity are indeed "personalities" today.

Now when talking about sustaining a series and holding the interest of viewers week in and week out, it is another matter. It would be silly of me to suggest that "I Spy" has been successful because we've been able to come up with stories that rival the works of a Hemingway or a Faulkner. Or that the viewers tune in for the show's "framework." Hardly.

Some critics have even gone so far as to say that our "stories barely exist" or "what the viewer remembers is not the plot or story but rather a series of pleasant effects and moods."

Frankly, unless I were producing a message play, I really cannot think of a better way to leave your audience.

GIVES UP—James M. Nabrit tells reporters in Washington that he is retiring as president of Howard University because of a threatened "black power" takeover. Howard is the nation's oldest predominantly Negro college. Nabrit said that "black power does not frighten me," but "I do not propose to preside over that sort of thing."

Police Car Junked

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Part of the undercover program of local police has been uncovered. Detectives sent an old car used in surveillance work to a garage for an oil change but instead of changing the oil the garage sent it to the junk yard.

"Next time we'll buy the oil and do it ourselves," police said of their "old junker" cars.

New York, N.Y. (Special): Science has found a special formula with the ability, in most cases—to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching and relieve pain. In case after case doctors proved, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrink-

But Johnson accomplished three things for himself while revealing nothing.

He gave the impression of harmony, whether there is or not; he avoided a rain of arguments for and against and free advice if he laid down specific numbers now; and he gave himself time to maneuver and suit himself about troops as the war goes on.

From his standpoint the sitting room session was worthwhile.

EDITOR'S NOTE — Sheldon Leonard, who once played the sinister race track tout on Jack Benny's shows, has become a television legend—a man with a golden touch for comedy. As Danny Thomas' long-time producer-partner, he was involved in such success stories as "The Danny Thomas Show," "The Andy Griffith Show," "The Dick Van Dyke Show" and, now on his own, "I Spy" on NBC. Here he explains his methods.

By SHELDON LEONARD For CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frequently I've been asked which comes first, the plot or the personality.

Presuming the query relates to dramatic films, as opposed to variety shows, I really cannot believe that there is any question as to the best place to start. The plot, of course, must be the jumping-off point.

Every dramatic vehicle must have a framework. It is the stuff from which your character relationships ultimately spring. And if you're as lucky as we are with "I Spy," you get talents like Bob Culp and Bill Cosby and let them have their head to lend their own interpretation to those relationships. But, always within the guidelines of the plot which has long-since been established—always, that is, if you can expect your property to sell in the first place, and to endure.

Culp and Cosby both would be the first to admit that four years ago, prior to "I Spy" becoming a TV entry, neither was a "personality" in the frame of reference we use to describe that performer with a following that demanded his being given a series. Dick Van Dyke, by the way, was in the same position prior to his series debut. There was no "Bob Culp type" or "Bill Cosby type" around which we could really design a weekly show.

But while we didn't have the "personalities" in the beginning, we did have two of the most professional talents in the business who by dint of such qualities plus their own creativity are indeed "personalities" today.

Now when talking about sus-

They keep well in a tightly covered container in a cool place. As mothers know, cereals and fruit are good for children. Oven-toasted rice cereal is the

Philadelphia Shuts Out Cincinnati Reds, 8-0

CINCINNATI (AP) — Flinging curves and change-ups, Jim Bunning fashioned a dazzling four-hit shutout over the Reds Sunday as 27 members of his family looked on.

Although he struck out eight Reds and walked only two, he held them to four harmless singles and pitched Philadelphia to an 8-0 victory, he didn't set any records.

But the 27 family members, mostly from across the Ohio River from Cincinnati may have been some kind of record for family attendance — although it won't appear in the record books along with Bunning's two no-hitters.

"I threw a lot of curves against the Reds," the veteran righthander said. "I also tossed some balls which were slower and slower," Bunning said after he posted his ninth victory of the year. He has lost eight.

Although his record isn't overly impressive, the Phils' pitcher said, "I haven't pitched badly at almost any time this year."

"I have lost some tight games, but that's still no excuse."

While Bunning was hurling his second shutout of the year, his teammates were providing overwhelming support. They banded out 14 hits — seven of them homing 8, the five-run seventh inning when they sent 11 men to the plate.

Bunning helped his own cause with two singles in the same inning.

John Callison's 11th homer of the season in the second inning was the biggest spoke of starter and loser Jerry Arrigo and four other Reds' hurlers.

Manager Dave Bristol sent in Bill McCool, out of action since June 13 with a sore wrist, to stifle the seventh-frame rally, but the Phils greeted him with four straight singles and he failed to retire a batter.

Larry Jackson will pitch against the Reds' Sammy Ellis tonight in the final game of a two-game series between the clubs.

Hoskins Hurls No-Hit Tilt For All Stars

Logan Elm Village Champion In First Round of Slo-Pitch

Logan Elm Village copped the first round of Slo-Pitch Softball Sunday, thumping Taylor of Amanda, 11-8, in extra innings.

In second round action Logan Elm Village dumped DuPont D-Shift, 11-8, and National Guard stopped Peppermint Lounge, 14-7.

Both LEV and Taylor posted 9-1 records at the end of the initial round. Sunday's game was a play-off to determine the first round winner. Logan Elm came back in the Taylor tilt to tie it up in the seventh with two runs. Both halves blanked in the eighth and ninth. LE came up with three in the tenth.

Weaver was winning pitcher, giving up 15 hits. Haughey allowed 18 hits on the Taylor mound.

National Guard and Peppermint Lounge were tied, 7-7, after seven. In the first extra frame, National Guard pushed across seven markers.

Chet Iery Sr. hurled the mound win, allowing 10 hits.

Boyer and Jim Diltz homered for the National Guard. Chet Iery Jr. homered twice for the winners.

Pony Stars Take Twinbill

Pony League All-Stars swept a twinbill from Columbus Rockets, winning 8-2 and 7-3 Sunday.

Circleville pitching staff limited the Rockets to six hits in both tilts. In the first Rick Blankenship fanned 12 and walked four, giving up two hits.

Dean Fausnaugh, Jim Neal and Blankenship all homered for Circleville in the first game.

Dean Fausnaugh pitched the win for the All-Stars in the second tilt, fanning seven, walking one and allowing four hits.

Harold Smith homered for Circleville. Mike Chelikowsky doubled. Struble and Myers homered for the Rockets.

Local Driver Wins Feature At Speedway

Myron Herron of Mechanicsburg copped the first heat of the Saturday racing program at Pickaway Speedway and posted the fastest qualifying time, turning the one-third mile oval in 24.30 seconds.

Don Stump was the winner of the trophy Dash, and came in first in the 20 lap oval feature race. Stump is from Whisler.

Following Stump across the line in the oval feature were Jim Brandenburg of Catawaba and Ronnie Allen of Circleville.

Behind Herron in the first heat were Larry Speakman of Circleville and Ray Kneec of Williamsport.

The second heat win went to Brandenburg. Larry Harris of Ashville was second and Ernie Adams of Circleville was third.

In the third heat, Dick French of Chillicothe was the winner. He was followed by Tim Congrove of Adelphi and Stoney Asbury of Miamisburg in the heat.

The consolation heat was won by Clarence Price. Carl Elliott of Chillicothe was second and Bob Vickroy of Circleville was third.

In the figure eight feature, Stoney Asbury was first, Dick French was second and Wayne Gray was third.

Philadelphia Shuts Out Cincinnati Reds, 8-0

CINCINNATI (AP) — Flinging curves and change-ups, Jim Bunning fashioned a dazzling four-hit shutout over the Reds Sunday as 27 members of his family looked on.

Although he struck out eight Reds and walked only two, he held them to four harmless singles and pitched Philadelphia to an 8-0 victory, he didn't set any records.

But the 27 family members, mostly from across the Ohio River from Cincinnati may have been some kind of record for family attendance — although it won't appear in the record books along with Bunning's two no-hitters.

"I threw a lot of curves against the Reds," the veteran righthander said. "I also tossed some balls which were slower and slower." Bunning said after he posted his ninth victory of the year. He has lost eight.

Although his record isn't overly impressive, the Phils' pitcher said, "I haven't pitched badly at almost any time this year."

"I have lost some tight games, but that's still no excuse." While Bunning was hurling his second shutout of the year, his teammates were providing overwhelming support. They banged out 14 hits — seven of them homing 8, the five-run seventh inning when they sent 11 men to the plate.

Bunning helped his own cause with two singles in the same inning.

John Callison's 11th homer of the season in the second inning was the biggest spoke of starter and loser Jerry Arrigo and four other Reds' hurlers.

Manager Dave Bristol sent in Bill McCool, out of action since June 13 with a sore wrist, to stifle the seventh-frame rally, but the Phils greeted him with four straight singles and he failed to retire a batter.

Larry Jackson will pitch against the Reds' Sammy Ellis tonight in the final game of a two-game series between the clubs.

Rock Davis tripled in the third with two aboard. Taylor and Davis each marked two hits.

St. Louis Cards See Lead Cut

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ed Kranepool had a hot time in St. Louis while Ernie Banks played it cool in San Francisco.

And the swinging times had by these two first basemen Sunday were too much for the St. Louis Cardinals, who saw their National League lead cut to two games over the second place Chicago Cubs.

"I had a real cold spell after the All-Star break," said Kranepool after he turned hot with a pair of two-run homers to lead the New York Mets to a double-header sweep of the Cardinals, 2-1 and 8-5.

The 36-year-old Banks, who likes to play in San Francisco because "the cool weather here seems to give older players a boost," hit a three-run homer and a two-run shot to help the Cubs beat the Giants 9-0 and 3-2.

In other NL games, Atlanta edged Pittsburgh 2-1, Philadelphia trounced Cincinnati 8-0 and Houston swept Los Angeles 4-1 and 8-2.

In the American League, Baltimore nipped New York 2-1 in 14 innings, Washington topped Cleveland 4-1, Boston pounded Detroit 9-5, Minnesota took California 5-1 and 7-3 and Chicago split with Kansas City, winning 5-1 and losing 7-0.

"Fifteen homers for me is a good year because I don't have that kind of swing for home runs," said Kranepool, who connected with Tommy Davis on base in the seventh inning for his sixth homer to give the Mets their first-game victory.

Kranepool, who had gone hitless in 16 trips prior to the homer, singled in a run and then unloaded again with Davis on during a five-run burst in the fifth inning of the nightcap.

"To be where little cable cars climb half way to the stars," sang the jubilant Banks, who sent a ball all the way over the fence with two aboard in the first inning of the opener and then did it again with a man on in the second inning of the nightcap.

The Cubs had no trouble in the first game, Adolfo Phillips clinching it with a grand slam in the sixth, but they had a real fight in the second game.

Bank's homer was the only hit off Ron Herbel until Don Kessinger singled to lead off the ninth with the score tied 2-2. Glenn Becker forced Kessinger, but Billy Williams singled Becker to third from where he scored on Ron Santo's sacrifice fly off reliever Frank Linzy.

Jim Hart homered for one Giant run and Willie McCovey singled in the other.

Mack Jones' RBI single in the sixth inning snapped a 1-1 tie for the Braves, who had opened the scoring an inning earlier. Pittsburgh had tied it in the top of the sixth with an unearned run off Phil Niekro, who pitched a five-hitter.

Philadelphia sewed up its game with a five-run, seventh inning rally in which pitcher Jim Bunning contributed two singles. Bunning allowed the Reds just four hits in snapping their winning streak at three games.

Ron Davis drove in two runs in each game and Jim Wynn homered and picked up three RBIs in the nightcap in Houston's double victory. Wynn's homer was his 22nd, and he boosted his major league leading RBI total to 68. Eddie Mathews hit his 501st career homer in the second game.

Three English Youngsters Challenge to Americans

HOYLAKÉ, England (AP) — Three English youngsters who showed the British oldsters how to play golf last week stood out today as a genuine challenge to American supremacy.

Clive Clark, 22, Tony Jacklin, 23, and Tommy Horton, 24, trailed Roberto de Vicenzo, the 1967 British Open champion and Jack Nicklaus the U. S. Open champion, but not enough to do anything other than make them proud.

As a result, the British golfing public, has shifted its attention from the oldtimers like Harry Weetman, Peter Alliss and Bernard Hunt in the hope of recovering the 107-year-old cup for the first time in a generation.

Not since 1951 has Britain won its own British Open cup. Max Faulkner managed it that year. Now, Clark is challenging hard. With only one year as a professional behind him, Clark shot a 284, to tie Gary Player for third place.

Jacklin was right behind with 285. Horton had 287.

This compared to the winning 278 posted by de Vicenzo of Argentina and the 280 that Nicklaus fashioned for second place in the championship that ended Saturday.

Jacklin, a surprising success on his first challenge in the United States at the Augusta Masters, is like Clark, working on the dedication which separates the men from the boys in modern golf.

Horton comes out of nowhere as well.

What distinguishes this trio is what golf galleries notice. They are all disciplined, dedicated, quiet, genial in spirit, and well dressed.

They are a new deal in British golf.

They're learning it from the Americans.

Cleveland Indians Lose To Washington Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sam McDowell didn't cover first base Sunday. It cost him $50 and maybe the ball game.

"It was the sixth time this season he's failed to cover first on time on a play like that and it cost him double," said Indians' Manager Joe Adcock after a 4-1 loss to Washington.

Two weeks ago McDowell was fined a reported $25.

Sunday's play came in the fourth inning with the Senators ahead, 1-0. With two out, Mike Epstein bounced one to the right of first baseman Tony Horton.

Horton fielded the ball but McDowell didn't get to first before Epstein, who scored later on Bernie Allen's double.

McDowell has said the play is tough because momentum carries him far to the third base side of the mound after a pitch. Adcock agrees but insists the play must be made. The Indians' big left hander didn't want to discuss it. "I don't want to talk to anybody," he said after the game.

Cleveland now has lost four straight games and scored three runs on 18 hits in 36 innings.

The Tribe got only four hits off Bob Humphreys and Bob Priddy. Ken McMullen rapped two homers in the Senators' seventh straight victory.

It was Humphrey's second start in two years and he allowed three hits. Maye homered off Priddy in the eighth and also had a single.

Adcock has scheduled an extra morning batting practice before tonight's game and only Maye and Max Alvis, besides the pitchers, are excluded.

McMullen homered in the first and hit a two-run homer in the eighth.

Luis Tiant will pitch tonight. If the Senators win, it'll be the club's longest consecutive victory string in 18 years.

HALL OF FAMER — Lloyd Waner, who with older brother Paul, starred for the Pittsburgh Pirates, is to be installed in the Baseball Hall of Fame later this month. Here's Lloyd as he looks today, mighty chipper in that California Angels cap.

Rookie Browns Run Through End Sweep

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — Blanton Collier took a look at his crop of rookies over the weekend and ran them through the end sweep, one of the Cleveland Browns' most effective plays in recent years.

Collier had John Demarie from Louisiana State and Charlie Fowler leading the blocking, with Notre Dame's Larry Conjar doing the running.

Demarie, a 245-pounder, is listed as a guard but was shifted to tackle Sunday.

Collier had the player working on fundamentals in preparation for Friday's rookie game against the Pittsburgh Steelers in Akron's Rubber Bowl. It'll be a controlled scrimmage with each team having the ball for 15 or 20 consecutive plays.

Each rookie club will run a total of about 50 plays then finish with a place-kicking drill.

Collier, starting his fifth season as Browns' head coach, has 29 first-year men and nine veterans at camp.

Two veterans invited to the camp didn't show up Saturday and will be fined $100 a day until they do. Linebacker Sid Williams declined to say why he didn't make it and quarterback Jim Ninowski asked for time to finish some business at his home near Detroit.

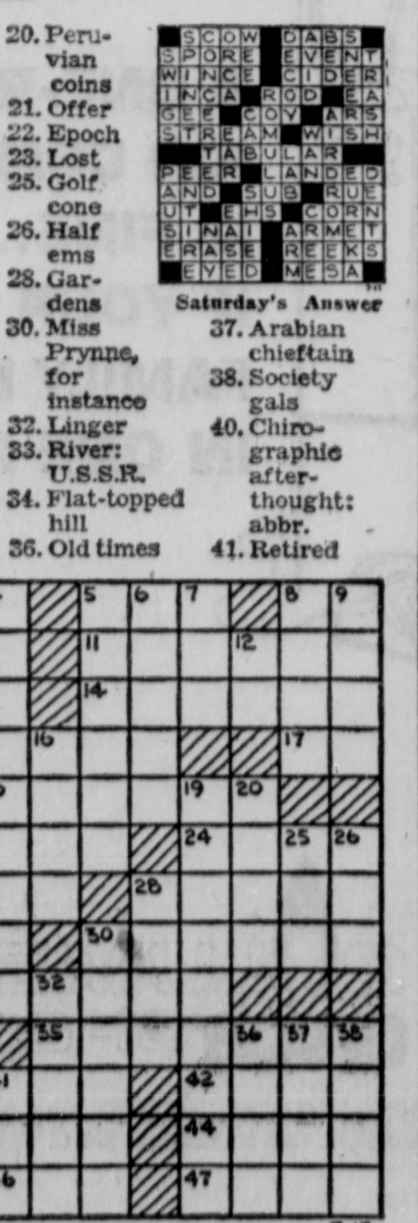

"I called Blanton last week and asked if I could report late," Ninowski said.

"I haven't heard from anybody so I assume permission wasn't granted," Ninowski added. "I am aware of the fine."

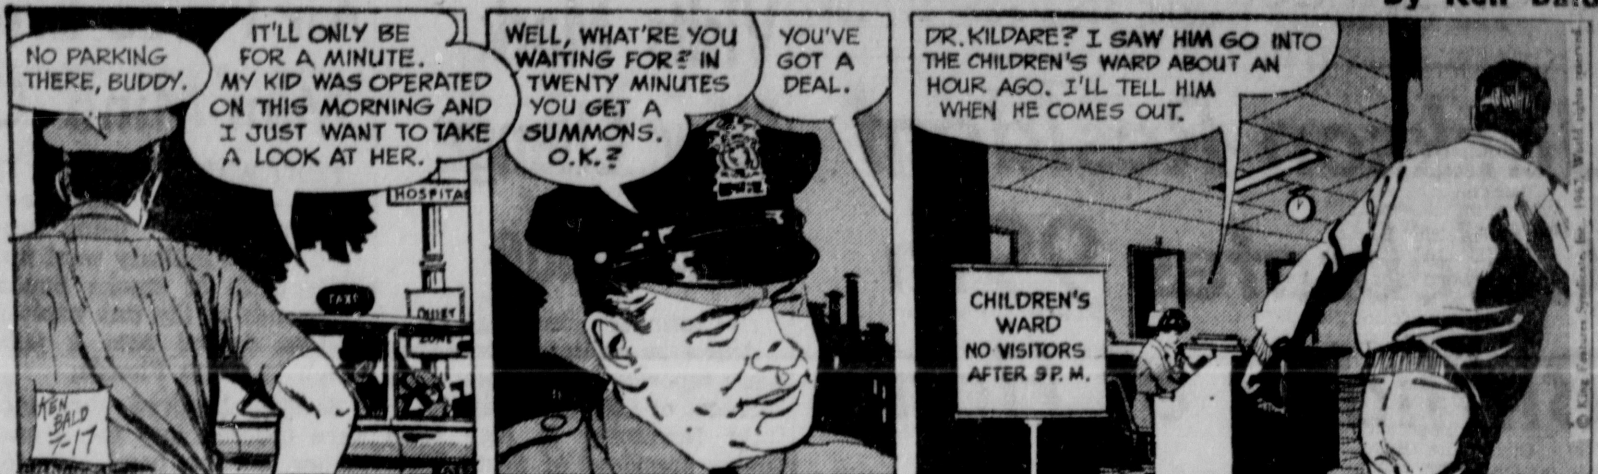

Ninowski still hasn't signed a 1967 contract.

Jackson Resident Celebrates 99th Birthday at Home

JOSEPH G. SHORTRIDGE

By STEVE JONES
Herald Staff Writer

Joseph G. Shortridge of Jackson Twp. celebrated his 99th birthday at his home Monday. He is believed to be Pickaway county's oldest living man. A resident of the county for the past 71 years, "Uncle Joe" Shortridge was born in Indiana. He lived for 14 years in Kansas near the Oklahoma border. Oklahoma was then an Indian territory, and Mr. Shortridge has many vivid memories of his early life with the Indians. Shortly before the turn of the century, he moved to Jackson Twp. He lived where Bruce Stevenson now resides on Route 56.

AFTER MOVING to Ohio, he met the late Susie Jones, daughter of I. A. Jones, who lived at the intersection of what is now Route 56 and Route 104.

They were married and lived near Fox for a few years. Sixty years ago, the Shortridges moved to the home on the banks of Darby Creek, where Uncle Joe now resides with his oldest daughter, Mary.

In spite of his age, Mr. Shortridge maintains a lively interest in current affairs and is an avid reader. There are few topics on which he is not well read.

Although he has not farmed for several years, he still keeps a close eye on the operation of the farm where he lives.

"They've got machinery. I never thought people would have brains enough to make," he comments on modern day farming.

"It takes thousands of dollars just to buy the equipment to farm. If a man has that much money I don't know why he wants to farm."

ABOUT increased yields farmers are able to achieve with hybrid seeds, herbicides and fertilizer he notes: "What gets my goat is people are just beginning to learn to raise a crop of corn and I'm too old to do anything about it.

"If I got 85 bushels of corn an acre I was well satisfied. Bruce Stevenson (who farms the Shortridge land) raised 140 bushels an acre in the field out there."

Mr. Shortridge recalls with a chuckle that a doctor many years ago told him if he didn't change his ways of living he would not live long.

Shortridge claims he has chewed Star plug tobacco nearly all his life. "I started chewing when I was three years old. I was too young to buy tobacco but I was a pretty good beggar."

"Mother use to whip me regular because I was so mean and ornery," he recalls.

During his lifetime, Shortridge has done many things, from mining lead in Missouri to farming in Kansas and Ohio. "I would tackle just about anything," he says.

A STAUNCH Republican, Shortridge says "I was born in a Republican county, lived in a Republican county in Kansas and worked in a Republican county in Missouri. But when I came to Pickaway County I got among the Democrats. I even married one."

Visitors at the Shortridge farmstead yesterday included his oldest daughter, Lillian Shortridge Alberts and her husband Paul of Oxford.

They frequently come to Circleville, taking Mr. Shortridge on rides around the country to keep him abreast of the changes taking place in the county.

The venerable Jackson Twp. resident notes that a woman once told him he would live to be 100 years old.

"If I live one more year I won't make a liar of her. I once read of a man who lived to be 112. He must have been a Democrat. I sure don't want to live that long," Shortridge said.

On November 2, Ngo Dinh Diem, president of South Vietnam, was assassinated.

Lyndon B. Johnson succeeded Kennedy on Nov. 22 and he sent McNamara back to Vietnam—the secretary's third visit—In December 1963. McNamara then said, "I am optimistic over the progress to be made during the coming year. Operations against the Communists from here on will be many and will be effective."

On Dec. 20, correspondents in Saigon reported that hopes of withdrawing American troops by the end of 1965 had evaporated. There was no official announcement to this effect. McNamara, at the airport, ignored a reporter's question about it.

1964—McNamara returned to the war zone for the fourth time in March.

On March 13, McNamara and Taylor returned from Vietnam and McNamara said, "I did not meet a single responsible official who doesn't believe that if a proper effort is made, victory can be obtained. The path to victory may be hard. There is no magic formula for winning an anti-guerrilla war."

Four days later, the White House issued a statement. For the first time it reported that "there have unquestionably been setbacks" in Vietnam since October—when the end of 1965 had been set as a target date for withdrawing most of the American forces.

May saw McNamara flying to Vietnam for the fifth time.

He said after this trip, "It may be necessary, in order to expand the training, particularly for the increases in the regular and paramilitary forces of South Vietnam, to send over additional U.S. personnel." He added, "I think on balance the number is not likely to be increased substantially. There will be both increases and decreases associated with the strengthening of the Vietnamese forces."

In July, it was announced that more American troops—"in the order of 5,000"—would be going to Vietnam. This would bring the total to about 21,000. Then, on Dec. 11, an announcement in Saigon said the United States was increasing its assistance. No details were given "for security reasons."

1965—McNamara went to Vietnam for the sixth time on July 14.

A week later he said, "The over-all situation continues to be serious. As a matter of fact it

Air Force Error Makes 'Mini-Mine' Open Secret

FORT WALTON BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Secrecy surrounding a new "mini-mine" being developed by the military went up in little puffs of smoke Sunday. Thousands of the tiny explosive devices drifted onto a public beach in North Florida.

Several hundred servicemen were ordered into the area to gather up the bomblets along some 120 miles of beach.

A canister loaded with the brownish disks was reportedly dropped accidentally into Choctawhatchee Bay along the Florida Panhandle. The disks are the size of a quarter with knobs protruding from each side.

When squeezed or stepped on they explode with the force of a large firecracker.

The secret device, being developed for use in Vietnam as alarms against sneak attacks, became unsecret when Donald Spinelli of Fort Walton Beach found one.

Spinelli, 24, was treated for eye and hand injuries after he tried to pull one apart with his fingers and it exploded.

A military spokesman said security on the devices had been "sensitive."

In an official release the Air Force said the objects had been dropped under "emergency conditions," but would not elaborate.

However, a civilian official in the area said the accident was caused by "a pilot taking off in the wrong plane."

has deteriorated since the 15 months ago when I was last here."

Johnson ordered American forces in the fighting zone to be increased to 125,000 on July 28.

In November, McNamara went to Vietnam for the seventh time.

"We have stopped losing the war," he said after that trip. By that time, the arrival of the 4th Infantry Division and the 196th Brigade had raised the total of American forces to 300,000.

1966—McNamara expressed optimism again after his eighth trip to Vietnam, Oct. 8-14.

"I saw nothing that indicates any need for a change in the rate of deployment of U.S. forces in the months ahead," he said. "The military operations have progressed very satisfactorily during the past year. The rate of progress has exceeded our expectations."

1967—McNamara had returned from his ninth trip on July 7.

"I can't comment on what additional troops, if any, will be sent to Vietnam," he said. He had previously indicated that 475,000 Americans would be engaged in Vietnam by the end of 1967.

Many of an estimated 10,000 Sunday bathers were asked to leave the beaches.

Larry Eccard At AFROTC Summer Camp

Lawrence D. Eccard, son of Mrs. Rosilyn D. Eccard, 163 W. Mound St., is participating in a U. S. Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps (AFROTC) field training encampment at Scott AFB, Ill.

Cadet Eccard is one of some 5700 AFROTC cadets attending four-week encampments this summer at Air Force installations throughout the country.

During the encampment cadets become familiar with the life and activities on Air Force bases and can examine career opportunities in which they might wish to serve as officers.

Other highlights of the course include survival training, aircraft and aircrew indoctrination, small arms training and visits to other Air Force bases.

Cadet Eccard is a member of the AFROTC unit at Texas A & M University.

He is a 1964 graduate of Circleville High School where he was a member of the National Honor Society.

Indian Burial Uncovered On Paint Reservoir Site

HILLSBORO, Ohio (AP) — A crew of archaeologists uncovered an Indian burial this week while excavating a mound on what will be the floor of the Paint Creek Reservoir in southeastern Highland County.

The skeleton of a 40-year-old Indian believed to have died about 900 A.D. was uncovered by the team headed by Dr. Raymond Baby of the Ohio Historical Museum and some Ohio State University students.

Purpose of the excavation was to "dig out" as much local history as possible before the area is inundated by reservoir water.

When Dr. Baby first made test holes some time ago, he assumed the mound to be of the Hopewell period.

"But I'm finding this is not so," he said. "In fact, it appears more like that of the Cole period—reminiscent of the burials and artifacts found in the Big Darby areas."

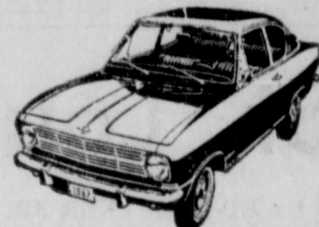

In one small area of the excavation the researchers found about 250 potshreds, pieces of pottery made by Indians of ancient times.

Dr. Baby said the bulk of the potshreds is definitely Cole pottery, but there is a little of the Hopewellian in it, that it "appears we are sounding out the last gasp of mound building in the southern Ohio area."

The Hopewell period was roughly from 300 B.C. to 600 A.D., with the Cole period following from 950 to 1100 A.D.

A ONE-ROOM AIR CONDITIONER IS FINE... IF YOUR WHOLE FAMILY LIVES IN ONE ROOM.

If you want to live in, say, two rooms, you just buy another one-room air conditioner. For three rooms, another... and so on. It's really very simple.

It's also very silly! And supporting a flock of one-room air conditioners is very costly, too.

Now let's get serious. For only $14 a month (maybe less), you can own clean, trouble-free, economical Gas whole-house air conditioning. With normal installation, a hefty three-ton unit

Here's the best part. If your home is heated with Gas, you probably already own about half a Gas air conditioning system: the ductwork, the blower and the filter. All you need is a cooling unit and a condensing unit.

For all the refreshing facts, just call the Gas Company. Gas whole-house air conditioning provides comfort for every member of your family... in every room of your house!

Jackson Resident Celebrates 99th Birthday at Home

JOSEPH G. SHORTRIDGE

By STEVE JONES
Herald Staff Writer

Joseph G. Shortridge of Jackson Twp. celebrated his 99th birthday at his home Monday. He is believed to be Pickaway county's oldest living man. A resident of the county for the past 71 years, "Uncle Joe" Shortridge was born in Indiana. He lived for 14 years in Kansas near the Oklahoma border.

Oklahoma was then an Indian territory, and Mr. Shortridge has many vivid memories of his early life with the Indians. Shortly before the turn of the century, he moved to Jackson Twp. He lived where Bruce Stevenson now resides on Route 56.

AFTER MOVING to Ohio, he met the late Susie Jones, daughter of I. A. Jones, who lived at the intersection of what is now Route 56 and Route 104.

They were married and lived near Fox for a few years. Sixty years ago, the Shortridges moved to the home on the banks of Darby Creek, where Uncle Joe now resides with his oldest daughter, Mary.

In spite of his age, Mr. Shortridge maintains a lively interest in current affairs and is an avid reader. There are few topics on which he is not well read.

Although he has not farmed for several years, he still keeps a close eye on the operation of the farm where he lives.

"They've got machinery I never thought people would have brains enough to make," he comments on modern day farming.

"It takes thousands of dollars just to buy the equipment to farm. If a man has that much money I don't know why he wants to farm."

ABOUT increased yields farmers are able to achieve with hybrid seeds, herbicides and fertilizer he notes: "What gets my goat is people are just beginning to learn to raise a crop of corn and I'm too old to do anything about it.

"If I got 85 bushels of corn an acre I was well satisfied. Bruce Stevenson (who farms the Shortridge land) raised 140 bushels an acre in the field out there."

Mr. Shortridge recalls with a chuckle that a doctor many years ago told him if he didn't change his ways of living he would not live long.

Shortridge claims he has chewed Star plug tobacco nearly all his life. "I started chewing when I was three years old. I was too young to buy tobacco but I was a pretty good beggar."

"Mother use to whip me regular because I was so mean and ornery," he recalls.

During his lifetime, Shortridge has done many things, from mining lead in Missouri to farming in Kansas and Ohio. "I would tackle just about anything," he says.

ASTAUNCH Republican, Shortridge says "I was born in a Republican county, lived in a Republican county in Kansas and worked in a Republican county in Missouri. But when I came to Pickaway County I got among the Democrats. I even married one."

Visitors at the Shortridge farmstead yesterday included his oldest daughter, Lillian Shortridge Alberts and her husband Paul of Oxford.

They frequently come to Circleville, taking Mr. Shortridge on rides around the country to keep him abreast of the changes taking place in the county.

The venerable Jackson Twp. resident notes that a woman once told him he would live to be 100 years old.

"If I live one more year I won't make a liar of her. I once read of a man who lived to be 112. He must have been a Democrat. I sure don't want to live that long," Shortridge said.
